2021 YEAR IN REVIEW

30th YEAR OF SERVICE

1992-2022

FORGING AHEAD

For IOCC, 2021 was full of learning, growth, and anticipation. Throughout the year, the board and staff across the organization developed a new strategic plan, which took effect January 1, 2022. The plan reflects IOCC's careful, systematic approach to humanitarian response and development work, building on the solid foundation of 30 years of service.

IOCC continues deepening its expertise and success in program-ming. It's worth noting that in 2021, IOCC directly served more than 1.5 million people—a 50% increase from the previous year.

Lessons learned and experience gained through the years, including maintaining program continuity amid the COVID-19 pandemic, have positioned IOCC to meet even greater needs—like the crisis in Ukraine—scaling up effectively and with agility.

This report shares highlights from 2021: glimpses of what your support accomplishes in the spirit of Christ's love. Thank you for serving people in tremendous need.

In Christ,

RECONNECTING IN 2021

As local conditions permitted, our dedicated volunteers began hosting more and more in-person events for IOCC throughout 2021. It's been exciting to see our supporters reconnect across the US. At the same time, online events are now part of what we do. We're grateful for your commitment and flexibility during the pandemic as together we navigated uncharted waters.

UKRAINE CRISIS RESPONSE

With its history of programming and strong partner relations across Eastern Europe, IOCC is uniquely positioned to serve the millions now in need as a result of events in Ukraine. Work is ongoing in Poland, Romania, and Ukraine.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

IOCC is at work around the world, meeting immediate needs and offering long-term support as communities shape their future.

In Greece (above), Athanasios's home burned down during the summer 2021 wildfires that swept across Evia, Attica, and the Peloponnese. With a voucher from IOCC worth $1,250, he purchased basic household goods to begin repairs. Offering both short- and long-term aid, IOCC is supporting those affected as they rebuild lives and livelihoods.

As Lebanon (below left) faces deep economic crisis, IOCC has provided food staples to help families keep meals on their tables.

In the US (below right), teams of IOCC volunteers have been at work since September 2021 helping communities clean up and rebuild after Hurricane Ida.

In Gaza (above left), IOCC offers health screening to identify and treat children with malnutrition. Parents and guardians receive nutrition education, and educators train to do basic screenings so they can serve their communities by preventing malnutrition.

In Ethiopia (above right), IOCC has provided emergency food supplies to people affected by conflict, including Tarik, a widow and head of a farming family.

Small-business owner Panayiotis received a specialized sewing machine to grow his shoemaking business in Greece (below), allowing him to stop outsourcing part of his production. Through the program, recipients also donate to a local charity or nonprofit: Panayiotis gave 30 pair of his shoes to a childcare center for families in need.

A multiyear program cofunded by IOCC has helped expand production facilities at Gračanica monastery in Kosovo, including a grain mill and an animal-feed production line. The additions are making the Church a reliable market for local farmers, who can sell their harvests or have them processed at the monastery.

IOCC provided personal protective equipment and training for staff at a Church-run eldercare home in the country of Georgia (below), helping lower the risk of COVID-19. This programming in collaboration with the World Health Organization also focused on educating communities about COVID-19 protocols and prevention.

Continuing its educational support in Haiti (above), IOCC completed repairs to a Church-run elementary school that serves hundreds of students and helped the school cover its operational costs throughout 2021.

In Jordan (above), IOCC has offered diagnostic, rehabilitation, and education services for people with visual, hearing, and physical disabilities in both refugee camps and urban areas. An IOCC program provided glasses, occupational therapy, and more to Leila, who is now happier and more independent.

IOCC's US Emergency Response Program (above) helps address immediate needs, including emotional and spiritual care, following disasters and supports long-term recovery efforts, like those needed when Tennessee experienced some of the worst flooding in recent memory.
